OCS - Organization - Divisions

Until 10 Nov 1964 OCS had 4 Divisions (ADP Division was abolished at that time, leaving three.

The Applications Division was the largest and most   STAT important component within OCS. Controlled [   ] STAT   [   ] positions in OCS. All OCS Systems Analysts and Programmers were centralized in that Div. It provided EDP Analyst/Programmer support to all four Directorates of the Agency and was responsible for computer systems design and programming of intelligence information applications, scientific applications, and business, or management support applications.

STAT

Memo for [   ] memo 27 July 1964 IUO

OCS Organization -   No DAD and EXO functioned as 2nd in command.

Originally Plans and Admin. were together in one staff;
subsequently split to get leverage for upgrading Admin Off.
and make direct line of command from AO to EXO.

Some confusion and overlap in functions between the two staffs later reported to EXO.

STAT   [   ] recommended no change be made at present. and chiefs of two staffs try to work it out.

Merging of ADPD into OCS

Becker memo of 24 Nov 1964 mentions the fact that organizational merging with the former Automatic Data Processing Division was taking place within OCS.

OCS Interrelationships - OSA

In November 1964 OSA/OCS were at a stage of strained relationships calling for a meeting Between the two Office Heads (Ledford/Becker) with the EXO/DDS&T (Blake).

Becker wished to suggest options to Ledford which would lead to constructive change.